—The press everywhere accords columns of praise to "Early in the Morning," as illustrated by Smith, Walcott, Cronin and Martin and their great company.

—Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Phelps, of the fourth ward, mourn the death of their infant son, Walter, who died Thursday afternoon, and was buried this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

—They have a very efficient fire department in Beloit, according to the Press.

—A stone barn was fired the other day, and the department turned out and saved the walls.

—The democrats will have three bands of music in their procession this evening, the Beloit band, the Bower City band, and Thoroughgood's concert band. They will have music if nothing else.

—A large delegation of Janesville and Rock county people will visit the state fair at Madison next week should the weather prove favorable. The exhibition promises to be one of the best ever held in the state.

—Helene Dutton will introduce into "Early in the Morning," La Poloma (the famous) that made Yonani famous, Pond Lihos, and other charming trills that will delight the most esthetic of audiences.

—Mr. Haskell has just completed thirty-two rods of concrete sidewalk on the north and south sides of the high school grounds, and several inside walks on the grounds at the residence of Mr. F. T. Duwiddie, first ward.

—We have received the sixteenth annual catalogue of the Whitworth normal school. The enrollment by counties credits Rock county with twenty-three, out of a total attendance of three hundred and thirty-six.

—A crab apple tree in Mr. Hartley's yard exhibits a novel sight of ripe fruit and spring blossoms, all at the same time.—Evening Review. A similar sight is presented on a crab apple tree on Washington street, first ward, of this city.

—The Italian organ grinder with the monkey attachment would be a good thing to bring up to the rear of the democratic procession this evening. The carrying out of this suggestion is respectfully referred to Chief Marshal J. W. St. John.

—Mr. Will Kimball celebrated his eighteenth birthday last evening, at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kimball, South Jackson street, by inviting a number of his young friends to his home, where a very pleasant evening was spent.

The train will leave Janesville at 7:30 a. m. arriving at Madison 10:30 a. m., leaving Madison at 6:25 p. m. arriving at Janesville at 8:40 p. m. Fair $1.35 round trip.

—If the hopes of the leading democrats are realized this evening, they will have at least one thousand torches in line in the procession. Of this number they anticipate some two or three hundred horsemen. One thousand Roman candles will be fired, and any amount of colored fire. The procession, if it is democratic, will be worth looking at.

—A rather curious and unnatural ear of corn has been left at this office, grown in a city garden. One very good sized and well filled ear, completely surrounded by eight smaller ones, all grown inside the same husk, the eight small ones being about half developed, the portion of the cob next to the large ear being bare of corn.

—That was a joyous gathering of young people at Concordia hall last evening, the occasion of the week's party given by the young ladies connected with the society. The attendance was large, and at ten o'clock when the "kiss" was drawn from the bag, there was fun without end. The Arion band furnished the music for the dance, and everything passed as pleasantly as could be desired.

—Arrangements are being made by the Sisters of Mercy, of this city, to hold a fancy bazaar, at the Guards' armory, commencing October 25th and closing November 5th. It will certainly be an interesting display, as the Sisters have the ability to accomplish in a finished manner, many artistic and useful articles. There will be numerous attractive features to win the attention of the public, further particulars of which will be given in the near future.

—The management of Smith, Walcott, Cronin and Martin's Grottoque Comedy company desire to call the attention of the public to the fact that this company appears in a legitimate grotesque comedy in three acts, entitled "Early in the Morning." This explanation is deemed necessary as the Big Four have so long been identified with minstrelsy, etc., that some people look for a musical performance, but the Big Four have flown to the realms of comedy and their minstrel days are over. They will appear at the opera house on Monday evening.

—The opera house was well-filled last evening by an appreciative audience to witness the play of "My Partner," by the Louis Aldrich company. The play was well presented, and the several parts were acted in a manner that received hearty applause, especially was this the case with Joe Saunders, the character assumed by Louis Aldrich, who was called before the curtain at the close of the third act. Major Britt, by Mr. E. S. Tarr, was also a favorite, as the local politician and attorney. The company is a good one, and should they visit Janesville again will be greeted by a like audience.

The Register says: "Elton Fay and wife returned from the Delta the latter part of last week, and on Saturday evening an elegant reception was tendered at the groom's home, where pleasures were shared in by a large company of his friends of Whitewater and other places.

A very pleasant surprise to him was the presentation of a beautiful easy chair by his brethren of the W. S. C. club. And then the strains of unexpected music called all the guests to the doors and windows during the evening, and a most delightful serenade by the new cornet band held them in happy and charmed surprise. The whole affair was replete with pleasing incidents and experiences.

—Happy also in the present enjoyment and for the memories of a life time."

—The Delavan Enterprise gives the following facts concerning the accident which resulted in the death of Mr. Albert Topping and Miss Winifred Dewey, of that village, on Tuesday evening: "Several of our young people were out driving on Tuesday evening, Albert Topping and Miss Winifred Dewey being of the number. The others had reached town and they were also returning home, when at the railroad crossing on the north and south road, about half past eight, the engine of the evening passenger train from the east, which reaches here at 9:45 o'clock, and both were instantly killed. It is supposed that they did not discover the coming train until quite near the crossing, and then misapprehending its nearness and unusual speed, thought they would have time to get safely over before its approach, and made the attempt; a moment more would have placed them beyond danger, as the engine escaped without injury."

Funeral of the Late S. W. Barker.

The funeral of the late S. W. Barker took place at his late residence in the town of Janesville yesterday afternoon, at half-past one o'clock. There was a very large attendance, especially by the neighbors of the deceased, and by sympathizing friends in the city. Rev. W. F. Brown, of the Presbyterian church, conducted the solemn services at the house, and made some very appropriate and touching remarks. The song service was beautifully rendered by a quartet consisting of Miss Hattie Dearborn, Mrs. C. B. Conrad, Mr. Herbert Baker and Mr. C. A. Vankirk, all of this city. At the conclusion of the solemn service the remains were conveyed to Oak Hill cemetery for burial, followed by one of the largest funeral processions ever seen in this city. Lecture on India.

A rare opportunity will be given to those interested in missions and India, to listen to an address by Miss Bissell, on Sunday evening, September 14th, at the Congregational church of this city. Miss Bissell was born in India, and appears in the costume of a Hindoo lady of high caste, and represents the Hindoo wife and mother. Her story is based on facts of which she is personally knowing and gives a life-like picture of the wretchedness and sorrow of their home life. She weaves into her story, their social and religious customs in a way that makes them real and touching beyond the power of reading to acquire. It is hoped that many will avail themselves of the privilege of listening to her stirring words.

THE TOBACCO CROP.

The Largest and Best in Quantity for Years—Estimates of Prices.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 10, 1884.—Extensive reports on the tobacco crop from 500 correspondents of the New England Homestead, covering all the seed leaf tobacco growing sections of the United States, indicate that the crop, now nearly harvested, is the best in growth and quality that has been raised for years. The total acreage may be slightly less than in 1883, but the proportion of Havana seed leaf has greatly increased. Fully two-thirds of the entire seed leaf crop is of the Havana variety, the balance being composed of seed leaf. The tobacco countries of Ohio, Illinois and Indiana are the only sections reporting unfavorably. There drought and grasshoppers have done more or less damage. In New England, New York, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin there has been an almost entire absence of hail. Only in a few limited localities has it been destructive. Wind, rust and fleas have done comparatively little damage. Very slight harm was done by the light frost of August 25, principally in Chenango county, N. Y. Actual offers for the new crop which Havana is likely to command good prices. From fifteen to twenty cents per pound has been offered in New England for Havana, fifteen to thirty cents in New York, and in one instance in Pennsylvania as high as fifty cents. In Wisconsin eighteen to twenty cents a pound has been refused for Havana, the growers expecting a higher price. The common seed leaf does not attract attention, except in the favored sections of the Connecticut Valley. While the crop is large, it bids fair to be the greatest wrapper crop ever grown. This is one reason for the good prices. Old tobaccos are pretty thoroughly used up; indeed, the shortage has not been so great for years. The 1883 crop, now about sampled, is not up to the average in quality, while in quantity it was outshone by the curly frests last fall. Its popularity is questionable also. The present defective tariff on tobacco, compelling all Sumatra wrappers to pay seventy-five cents per pound duty.
